COVER LETTER

Dear Sir/Madam,

My name is Nguyễn Hồng Huân. I have just graduated for a year, with a Bachelor's degree in Psychology, from the Psychology Department at the Ho Chi Minh City University of Education.

I came across your commercial on Facebook and I must say I am deeply intrigued. I have read your criteria and I can say I am a matched candidate. I am optimistic, creative, collaborative, and prone to betterment and innovation.

My current field of profession is education, I have been teaching English to college students and young adults for 2 years, since my final year of college. Therefore, it is true to say I have some experiences when it comes to communicating with people. The principles are similar, the role of the teacher to the learners is very much the same as the managers to their employees. Employees and learners are people who seek to better themselves and achieve their goals. And the managers and the teachers are there not to interfere or point fingers, but to respect their capabilities and to help them.

Last but not least, I have read Coca Cola's human rights policy and I must say your policy is align with my core values. I am an advocate for human rights, diversity, and psychological safety in the workplace as well. I fully believe everyone has an equal chance to offer the best of themselves despite their sexuality, race, or any other factors.

As an anecdote, I would like to end this letter by thanking Coca Cola for the diet coke that I can drink during movies without feeling guilty about gaining too many calories.

I am looking forward to being admitted to this program. I believe it is a perfect opportunity for me to learn, grow, and contribute to your enterprise.

Thank you for reading,

Yours faithfully,

Hong-Huan Nguyen
